We learn from Mr. W. T. Price, circuit court clerk, that suits for the September term of the Adair circuit court, are being filed very slowly. Only four up to this time and three of them are petitions for divorces Heretofore up to this date twelve or fourteen suits were filed. For the Young Girl.

No girl should think her education well begun until she knows that she is acquiring the quiet, well bred manner known as poise, which is the subtle expression of beauty and strength of character, and although many young girls may consider it a quality rightly belonging to older people, it is nevertheless, a most lovely attribute of youth.

The girl who lacks poise is al ways smoothing her hair, settling her neck ribbon, adjusting her belt, crossing and recrossing her feet. She is twin sister to the gigling girl. It is needless to say what an annoyance it is to be long in company of either.

Where Must Young Men Look For Opportunities?

Throughout the whole United States there is a most remarkable industrial growth. Little Sale of Adair Circuit Court, rendered factories are growing into big ones. New machines are being manufactured by the older establishments and frequently these become so important that great establishment are built up to take care of the demand for these new appliances.

The wonderful growth of automobile building is a good illustration. Fifteen years ago there were practically no automobiles; one concern alone in Detroit at the present time is manufacturtaining 14 73-100 acres, fully described ing over one hundred thousand machines a year.

A few years ago the freight car formed a rather unimportant element of our national production. At the present time, in order to take care of the tremendous demands of transportation, freight cars are made in tens of thousands. The car has evolved from the simple wooden structure to that of elaborate steel design.

The street car and interurban service of this country has created undreamed of requirements for rolling stock of this sort.

All the small towns as well as the large ones make use of electrical energy. This means electrical power plants equipped with machinery embodying the very latest improvements in both electrical generator and transmission devices.

One of the most fascinating fields of endeavor that has been created in the last ten years is that of scientific furniture building, Grand Rapids, Michigan, has become a great center. There are a number of towns in central Indiana that turn out thousands of pieces of panel furniture at a very reasonable cost to the home builder.

Steel mills are springing up everywhere in this country and in Canada. New) and efficient processes are taking the places

Our technical schools are furnishing the material. From the State University of Kentucky, for a number of years, there have gone out into the in dustrial world as remarkable set of young engineers as have been graduated from any university in this country. One of the greatest authorities on heating and ventilating at the head of one of the largest concerns in New York, is a State University man. Sermon on Luck.

We'll tell you about this thing called luck. It comes to the person who keeps the weeds cut down so that it can find him. Luck sometimes walks up and collars an idler, but it is more apt to nab the man who is busy doing the best he can all the time. Luck isn't lying around on the street allowing the loafers to cover it with whittlings. Neither is it a stream waiting for some lazy fisherman to hook it.

Luck generally goes hand in hand with industry. If you sit around and wait for luck to hand you a bag of gold and make you This year every graduate in a rich man you are pretty apt to end your days in a poor house. A four leaf clover will bring more luck to the busy man than it will to the loafer. It may seem a little tough for a man to work hard for a long time and then have his earnings all swept from him at a single stroke, but it is better to have had it and lost it than never to have had it at all. And another thing; luck isn't labeled. So it will do you no good to stand around and look for it When luck starts out to look for you, you won't be able to hide from it. go to work.

The preparation of this five cent dinner would seem to be a definite loss in some of the technical training, but it appears otherwise when one visits the school

It appears to be of absolute value in the general training, as the girls are used in small relays, so that each girl in the school comes to this special work once a week. The class book, which is carefully kept, shows exactly the work the pupil has done each time she has been on duty for a dinner and luncheon.

course of the school year she will have covered a certain definite amount of practical housekeeping work. There is the added value that she has prepared this food in quantities sufficient for an ordinary family, and not in lab-

It might be urged that a high school is not a vocational school, and that our schools are not preparing girls for lunch room service. This is all true, but the greatest indictment brought against our schools today is that they do not give our boys and girls a grip on live, real, everyday things. The work in this school seems to give this and at the same time helps to sustain Itself while giving all the pupils something that is wholesome to eat at a remarkably low price.

There are high schools all over the country that cannot afford domestic science. There are many others where the girls are doing laboratory domestic science, and a large percentage of the pupils go to the corner grocery or a cheap confectionery for their noor.

The value as well as the economy of serving the children with an appetizing, inexpensive meal, scientifically prepared, is obvious. Their health is conserved and a practical course to domestic science is made possible. Is it not possible to gain both things at the same time by a carefully prepared course of study? It certainly is worth thinking about, for people everywhere are looking to the school for more real every day efficiency.

HOME GARDEN CLUBS GROWING

Campfire Girls of Louisville Suggestions by Louisville Com-Use Vacant Lots.

ADVICE FROM AN EXPERT. BENEFITS OF CO-OPERATION.

Children Taught to Help Furnish Their Own Tables With Fresh Vegetables. Idea Is Spreading to Country Towns. Future Men and Women In Close Contact With Growing Things.

The continual cry, "Back to the soil," that is heard in the newspapers and magazines is keeping the attention of the people in the country as well as those in the city fixed on gardening and farming. This is not only true of the small town and the back country, home garden clubs are growing in popularity and in numbers each season.

This spring the city of Louisville organized a home garden club that gardening among men, women and children, and especially the children, might be pushed. That the work might be real and that definite results might be obtained, vacant lots were secured at various points and model gardens

This work will have a vital effect upon the men and women of tomorrow by giving them an understanding and a growth which can only come through close contact with the soil and growing things. Education is gradually shifting to a rational use of books and a fuller use of the life which the child leads in the garden, in the home, and under blue skies. It means an education that makes red blood throb in young veins; it means an education that does things in the everyday world; it means an education that is close to the primitive; it means an education that fits the child for life.

"BACK TO THE SOIL."

Movement Can Be Aided by Modern Ideals and Methods.

The effort to better rural conditions is touching a fundamental problem of American life. The "back to the soil" agitation can have little permanent effect until we go back to the tiller of the soil with the inspiration and enlightenment of modern ideals and methods. We must carry the message has of reaching audiences in the state into every fertile valley and to every mountain side; we must get back from the traveled roads and the steam and electric lines; we must reach the little isolated schoolhouses, the country churches and every other agency that can be a source of help. We can give the schoolteacher and the itinerant preacher a broader viewpoint and deeper interest in the welfare of their charges-an interest deeper because more practical and more hopeful.

Nor must we rest with this. A striking feature of the new movement is ble opening for the dissemination of the determined effort to show the business man in the city that he has a point of intimate contact with the farmer-that in mutual help is to be found advantage for both.

We like this work because it is based on sound social lines. It is in harmony with the finest ideals of the time. There is immense satisfaction to Kentuckians in finding the old state assuming a place of leadership in an undertaking so splendid and so promising. - Editorial in Louisville Herald. April 2.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS HELP EDUCATION

mercial Club.

Kentucky Sunday School Association Has Done Excellent Work, and Its Influence Can Be Extended Through the Efficient Aid of Public School Teachers and Superintendents.

The educational wave is rising in our old state. For a long time each and every organization that was helping the movement has been working independently. Now there is a desireto get together. The following report of a special committee on the work but it is also true of our big cities, for of the Sunday school association and that of the Louisville Commercial club. will explain itself.

The Kentucky Sunday School association has a splendid organization Every county has some form of organization. Many of the people who are interested in all the best interests of the county are numbered among those who are connected with this association. These persons can be given a broader view of what the Sunday school, the public school and the home could do for the entire commu nity, reaching into the physical, mer-tal, social and spiritual development. Not only the city pastors, but the rural pastors, who are in a measure leaders in the communities, are connected with the Sunday School association, and in many cases the public school teachers, superintendents of the county schools and others engaged in educational work. The Commercial club is reaching through its wide system of publicity, the prizes it has been offering, and the correspondence conducted, many who are interested in truest education but whose viewpoint is different from that of Sunday school workers.

The Kentucky Sunday School association holds conventions in almost every county in the state every year. attended by thousands of the better citizens. In addition to this several hundred district conventions and nearly a thousand rallies and conferences are held. This association also pubperience was engaged to take charge lishes the Kentucky Sunday School Reporter with a circulation of about 5,000 per month.

These two organizations could great ly strengthen and advance the work both are doing by securing one or more persons in each county who would rep resent both organizations. Under the direction of such persons a survey of many counties might be made, finding the present conditions and forming a common basis for future work. At the conventions held time could be given for the discussion of topics of vital interest for the upbuilding of the com munity, school, home and Sunday school and the length of the convention be increased to two entire days. The same thing could be done in district convention, rallies and institutes By holding conferences where a wider range of topics would be presented each would be able to reach many that have not yet become interested. Then each could help the other.

Therefore we suggest: First .- That in the future on all programs of institutes, conventions and rallies there be given a topic relating to the corelation of secular and religious education in the state along definite lines and that this topic be assigned to a person well informed or both religious and secular education. In such way there might be the opportunity of bringing to the attention of people who have never thought or the matter the value of such correlation. Because of the wide opportunity which the Sunday school speaker this would be the surest way of arous ing enthusiasm, disseminating informa tion and removing prejudice.

Second.-That in the future at all electing conventions-district, county and state-there be chosen superintendents who shall promote the co-operation of secular and religious educational forces along definite lines.

Third.—That whenever opportunities arise the possibility of the use of the church as a social center be emphasized and encouraged, making a possieducational ideas.

Fourth.-That at the state convention this work be made a distinct feature of the program and if possible a department session be given it.

The Truant Law.

When this law is so openly set at naught as to bring a particular case to the attention of the public it is time that a halt was called and the malefactor made to suffer for his shortcomings. The sending of a child to school is a moral duty, and when this moral luty is neglected by those whose duty it is to observe it is the duty of the authorities to step in and take a hand. We want to say that if she is compelled to act the strong arm of the law will fall in no gentle manner upon the shoulders of the malefactor. Better send the kiddies to school. which is your duty, and where they belong and thereby fulfill your moral obligation as well as avoid a conflict with the school authorities.-Central Record.

THE PRIMARY.

It is not the purpose of The News to attempt to prescribe course of action in the closing hours of the present contest. It does not clam to be able to reveal the future, but standing for the best interest of the Democratic party and the public in general, it is not the mouthpiece of any candidate, and the following is given for what it may be worth to the party in this county. Earlier in the campaign the attention of our candidates was called to the importance of a clean contest. It was stated that the best citizens of this county whre not inclined to pay tribute to frauds or political debauchery, and If we are not mistaken stronger proof of the correctness of this position now exist. So, in summing up, what will it profit any man or set of men to win a nomination and loose the election next fall? Thus it is likely to be unless cool and deleberate action, rather than hot-headed impulsive support is the measure of results. The Democratic party in this county has been in the background for twenty years. It has made many commendable struggles with no hope of success. Through all the past it steared its course without factional troubles, standing for Democracy in its broadest sense, but now when division of its old antagonist has opened wide the road to victory, when insurmountable obstructions have been removed, certainly commendable conduct ought to prevail and thus stear clear of the troubles that threaten division and defeat. No accusation is here intended to apply to any one candidate or to any particular supporter, but to one and al alike. Rumors of various sorts are now afloat. Combinations are alleged to exist. Assertions are made that money will be used. We have found many of these rumors founded on suspicion, and, in fact, so far, not able to say from whence they came. An animated contest, one of life and activity, may be expected and is not detrimental to any party organization if conducted by fair and honorable means, but false reports and unfair methods can not work to the good of the party regardless of of who they may nominate, and the man or set of men who disregard public demands may realize, after it is too late, the cost of his mistake. The people who must decide the contests are entitled to know the facts, whether favorable or unfavorable. Now is the time to measure the difference between the men who seek the nomination and later an election. We are in pasition to make the strongest ticket the party has had for many years and to give this county officials that will main-interests. A ticket can be so made as to need no appology or defense for support next November. It is a family contest, brother against brother, so to speak, and the deadly weapons of misrepresentation and money can not produce good. We hope that no supporter of any one will allow his zeal to lead him beyond the limits of a square deal. The Democratic nomination does not guarantee election next fall, regardless of the division of its opponents. Victory in November depends largely on the conduct of the present contest, and as wild as this statement may appear to some, time will prove its correctness. With due caution exercised in selecting the strongest men for each place on our ticket, the men least assailable by our opponents, the stronger will be the Democratic position. day. As to the strongest men, the ones best fitted for the various positions, is not a matter for the News to state. This is left to the judgment of every man to determine, which ought to be done with due consideration for victory next fall and for good officials thereafter. Its a Democratic contest and it ought to be conducted on the broad plans of Democratic principles both by contestants and supporters alike. Let the truth have the broadest sway and every man do what he can to correct and suppress any false rumors that may be started, whether favorable or unfavorable to those of his choice. Truth can not be crushed, falsehood can not avail permanent good.

A CARD.

My fellow Republicans:

It is generally known that I am a candidate to represent the 16th district in the next Senate of Kentucky, and I desire through the press, to appeal to my friends, asking them to support me at the August primary for the nomination.

I have been a Republican ever since and before I reached my majority-active in every campaign, doing my utmost to advance the interest of the party that I have been identified with since I was in my teens. I feel that I can win at the final election, and I appeal to my friends to be at the polls on August 2d and vote for my nomination. If you will turn out and support group drew closer about Uncle me, I will consider it a great favor, and besides I will ever feel grateful.

Some Road Figures.

As Uncle Bill came out of the post office with a letter in his hand, the discussion of the tariff lulled, and one of the men yelled, "Uncle Bill---"

The old man's face wrinkled into a smile as he held up his hand and said, "Hold on, hold on, I know what you want to ask. You see this letter, it's got just the answers you want, I'll bet a hat." He pulled the letter from its envelope, adjusted his silver-rimmed spectacles and continued, "You recollect that about a week or ten days ago all of us here at the store was talking about State Aid for road building. Some of you fellows asked a whole let of questions. One of 'em was, what some of the roads in this State cost the government."

"Have you got the figure?"

"Yep, I just went home and wrote up to Frankfort and got 'em straight. Say, there 're more of 'em an they are bigger than I thought they was. I'm going to read 'em out, if you want 'em?"

"Sure we do" -- and the Bill as he seated himself cautiously on a nail keg.

"Well, I find that way back in 1821 Kentucky gave $1,000 to improve the grade over Muldroughs Hill. That was part of the Lexington to Nashville road. But later when the people began to build sure enough macadam roads, the State put the money up in big chunks. when they Abe Aaron's family. built the road from Lexington to Frankfort, she gave $78,122. That was twenty-seven miles of road. Then here are the other roads:-

Frankfort to Louisville $65,000 52 miles and he got a stub of a lead pencil from his vest pocket. After quite a time he announced with pride and satisfaction, "If you add in the $213,200 for the Maysville road, that makes $1,758,322 that was given in State Aid way back yonder before land was worth much and before there was any factories or big business

"Why do you reckon they done

"Because they had more every day common horse sense than we got, I reckon. They was sharp Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Irvin, of enough to see that it wasn't any tax; but an investment to boost the price of their land."

> "I reckon that's so, Uncle Bill."

"Sure, it's so. The poorer your land the more you need road to make it sell. If it is first class land and off the road, you can sell it; but if it's poor and off the road, you're up against it. Most of our landwell, it's poor enough to need a wards a universal extension of stiff price."

"Of course, everybody knows that good roads are neeeed and needed bad."

"Well, then, if all of us know we ought to have good roads, and we know they'd improve the price of land, all we got to do is to find out the cheapest way, isn't it?"

"Yep."

"Well, then, if anybody's got a better and a easier way than State Aid, just trot it out and I'm for it all right."

Time to be Taxed.

In Frankfort-on-Main every person of a responsible age is supposed to be well enough off to pay for his own timekeeper, be it a guaranteed chronometer or an old-time water clock. Consequently the city authorities see no reason why superfluous clocks which show their faces in the street should not be taked, and all the more so as they seldom agree with each other.

The tax proposed is one of from 30 shillings to 60 shillings yearly. It is to be levied, not in accordance with the inaccuracy of each individual clock, but according to size.

The Red-Haired Girl.

Have you red hair? Then consider this. There are several degrees of color in hair that are indiscriminately called "red", and in this connection the qualities that are supposed to go with red hair depend to a great extend to the particular tone or shade.

TOSCANINI'S DEBUT.

He Was Literally Forced to Conduct Opera the First Time.

As an opera conductor Toscanini seems both to have achieved greatness and to have had greatness thrust upon him. In the Century Max Smith, giving a character sketch of the eminent musician, thus describes his first triumph. Toscanini was in Rio de Janeiro, doing double duty in the opera house as first cellist and assistant chorus master. The season had gone badly from the beginning. One conductor had been rejected, and matters reached a crisis when an indignant audience, assembled to hear "Aida," refused to accept the services of an incompetent substitute, compelling him by main force to leave the orchestra, amid jeers, hisses and catcalls before the unfortunate man had lifted his baton.

The impresario was in a quandary, when a delegation of influential subscribers insisted that he should not abandon the performance. They were ready, they said, to accept as leader any musician in the orchestra rather than the man dismissed.

Some one suggested Toscanini, who beat a retreat to the stage, where he was found trying to hide in the wings. His efforts to escape were futile. No excuse was accepted. Forced into the clawhammer coat worn by the costumer of the theater, he was dragged into the pit and lifted bodily to the conductor's stand, while the crowd roared its approval.

The youthful maestro seized the baton, and suddenly the noise was quelled. He held at once the undivided attention not only of the orchestra, but of the mob. Every one could see that he was conducting from memory. Even then, making his first appearance as a leader, he was independent of the score, and so an evening that begun with tumultuous protests ended with boisterous demonstrations of enthusiasm, insuring the cellist's employment as conductor to the end of the season. Brute force had launched him on his brilliant career. The news of his sensational debut was flashed across the ocean, and thereafter the doors of every opera house in Italy were open to

STAGE VILLAINS.

Not Those Who Play the Scoundrelly Parts, but the Real Ones.

The true villain of the stage is not always the one who strives to kidnap the heroine and bestow a violent death upon the hero, for jealousy and the acts prompted by it lead not only the ladies but also the men to resort to unprincipled methods to disgrace a rival. One or two of the tricks are quite common, notably that of doing something to make another player miss his or her cue. In one case an actress carried a fan, which she used deliberately to blow the sound of her low spoken syllables away from the other actress. As a result the latter had great difficulty in catching her cues, so much so that the audience began to speak of ly by the critics. An equally common trick is for the actor to step toward the back of the stage. This causes his victim's face to be turned away from the audience, the consequence being that not only his voice is lost, but his features are invisible and his efforts thus spoiled. Still another device which has been utilized by stage "criminals" is that of anticipating the laugh of a comedian with a broad smile or grin. This little trick takes the edge off the fun resulting from the other actor's lines.

One of the simplest ways of ruining the effect of an act is by dropping something at the crucial moment. The instant this is done the minds of the audience will go like a flash to this unlooked for interruption and are drawn away from the words of the speaker .-New York Mail.

The Tobacco Crop of 1913.

Estimates of tobacco acreage in Kentucky place it at 345,060 acres in 1012. The estimates of production forecast a total crop of 210,603,000 pounds in 1912.

The decline in acreage is due to curtailment of the crop in the dark tobacco region where much of the last year's crop is still unsold and where the prices recently have been enything but satisfactory to the growers The State Agricultural Commissioner's report for June places the acreage of dark tobacco at 64 per cent, and the condition a litabove 75 per cent. On the contrary the acreage of Burley is estimated at 80 per cent. and the condition at 79 per cent. The Burley growers. it should be remembered, have been getting fair prices for their product and thus have found incentive to a big crop.
